Comment Of The Day

FUNDAMENTAL DIFFICULTIES

THE basic assumption in every proposal which the Western Powers have put forward for years past about Germany is simply that the German people shall have the right to choose for themselves, by free democratic process, the form of government under which they wish to live, and that a reunited Germany shall have the same right as any other sovereign people to decide and determine its own external relations.

It could, of course, voluntarily accept obligations or limitations but they must not be imposed. Any attempt to do this, as Mr Selwyn Lloyd has pointed out, will historically "hold out a most unhappy prospect." These really are fundamental and they are the basic issues between democracy and dictatorship.

Free To Choose

THE Western Powers ask that the German people, both East and West, shall, in one way or another, be free to choose the kind of regime under which they choose to live, but the Soviet Union will not listen to this argument. The Russians insist that any settlement, shall in one way or another, ensure the maintenance and perpetuation of the present Communist regime in East Germany.

They put it in many ways, a favourite one being that "the working class in Eastern Germany must be safeguarded." It might be thought that the Soviet leaders and their German fellow Communists, would have complete confidence that, given the opportunity, the East German workers would vote, with an overwhelming majority, for the party which has secured them these "gains."

But, of course, they know better. They know that, given the opportunity, the East German masses would rid themselves of their present rulers. Therefore the "opportunity" must not be given them. The Communist dictatorship, based, in the last analysis, on Soviet armed force, must be preserved at all costs. Therefore a precondition of any settlement must be the denial of democratic rights to the people of the divided country.

Other Issue

THE other issue is essentially the same. Shall a reunited Germany be as free as the democratic countries to choose for itself its own alignment—or non-alignment—in international affairs? The Russians say "No" because it knows what the German choice would be.

The Soviet Union may or may not want a reunited Germany but what it wants is to maintain denial of freedom, either internally or externally; it wants to preserve the East German Communist dictatorship internally and impose on all Germany a foreign policy dictated by itself. These then are what Mr Selwyn Lloyd calls the "fundamental difficulties" which separate East from West and on which there is little likelihood of a settlement.

FOREIGN SECRETARY MAY BECOME LORD CHANCELLOR LLOYD TO GET NEW JOB?

Wave Of Speculation In London

London, May 31. An unexpected new wave of speculation began today that Mr Selwyn Lloyd, Britain's Foreign Secretary, will before long be switched to another post in the government.

An article in Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express by the political commentator Crossbencher suggested that Mr Lloyd—a lawyer—might before long become Britain's Lord Chancellor, the highest legal office in the government.

European On Traffic Charges

George Bowman Ramago, 44, of 107-A, The Peak, top floor, pleaded not guilty before Mr I. T. Morris at Central Magistracy this morning to driving a vehicle under the influence of drink and dangerous driving.

The case was adjourned till tomorrow.

It is alleged that on Saturday at 4.50 p.m. defendant committed the offence while driving his car, XX7803 near No. 2 Magazine Gap Road.

He is represented by Mr I. MacCallum of Wilkinson and Grist.

Defendant was allowed bail of $1,000.

Queen Mother, Margaret To Get Own Press Sec.

London, May 31. Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, and Princess Margaret are to have their own press secretary, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said tonight.

The spokesman added, "The appointment has been under consideration for a considerable time, although no details have been fixed yet."

The new press officer will work from Clarence House, the London house of the Queen Mother and the Princess.

Monkey Business

Calvo, May 31. Police spent three hours chasing a woman's wallet from three monkeys in a pit at Calvo's zoological gardens last week. A pickpocket tossed the wallet into the monkey pit as police pursued him through the zoo.—UPI.

BOOK ON WINDSOR BANNED IN A SPA

London, June 1. Royal Leamington Spa in central England, has banned from its town library a book about the Duke of Windsor, the News Chronicle reports today.

The book—Double Exposure—gives details of the Duke's romantic life when he was Prince of Wales and in written by the twin sisters, Gloria Vanderbilt and Thelma, Lady Furness.

Councillor Norman Slater, Leamington's library committee chairman, is quoted as saying: "It is in very bad taste."

"The book has no value as a work of literature in my view. The throne does not want this kind of publicity."

"It might embarrass the Royal family."

Alderman B. A. Fetherston-Dike, aged 83, is quoted as saying: "The last thing we want to do is to upset the Royal family."

Leamington Spa gained the right to call itself "royal" after visits there by the Royal family in 1838.—Reuter.

HK Colleges Can Get University Status If...

By A STAFF REPORTER

THE United Chinese College will be granted university status when all requirements have been fulfilled but this will take some time, it was learned this morning.

For the time being the various colleges will carry on as usual and their autonomy and management remain separated until the attainment of the new status.

The United Chinese College is a combination of several private post-secondary colleges whose medium of teaching is Chinese and who offer courses in arts and engineering. Included in the group are the Canton Overseas College, the Kwang Hsia College, the Wah Kiu College, the Wen Hua College, the Ping Jing College of Accountancy, the Chung Chi College and the New Asia College.

After the university status is granted, degrees offered by the United Chinese College will be recognised by the Commonwealth Inter-University Conference as to be of equivalent standard to other Commonwealth universities.

At the height of the downpour—which yielded over three inches of rain in four hours—there was extensive flooding on roads and nullahs were turned into raging brown torrents. Hongkong reservoirs, well below the half-way mark look like deriving substantial benefit.

An official of the Waterworks Office told the China Mail this morning that New Territories and Hongkong island reservoirs benefited and up to 8 a.m. this morning the 24-hour gain was almost 100 million gallons.

During the morning another three-quarters of an inch of rain was recorded at the Royal Observatory. The total rain since the storm began at 6 a.m. was 3.74 inches, at noon. The temperature, which has been six to seven degrees cooler than yesterday, was 75 degrees at noon. The minimum temperature during the night was 72.7 degrees.

The Observatory spokesman explained that there was a low pressure trough situated south of Hongkong causing storms all along the China Coast. The rain storms are expected to continue today, but the trough may move further south tomorrow afternoon bringing some improvement.

Welcome Relief

The rain brought a welcome relief from the muggy heat of the past few days. The spokesman said that today, with overcast skies, the temperature should reach a maximum of about 80 degrees.

Traffic along Robinson Road this morning was upset when four cars became bogged down in silt, washed from a building site by the heavy rain. The cars, the traffic police had taken control, but by then vehicles headed for Western District were packed solid as far back as Garden Road.

Three of the four cars were eventually freed and the Police allowed single lane traffic to proceed through the flooded area.

Workmen were set to clear the blocked drains and succeeded in releasing the flood water shortly before 9 a.m. Later, the early obstruction left was the disabled car and a heavy deposit of mud, which still limited traffic to a single lane.

Water Situation

A rainhose cover at the junction of Caroline Hill and Link Road opposite Cable and Wireless Sports Club, was forced off by a torrent of water which continued to gush three feet in the air, until the rain eased off.

The water situation has improved somewhat since 8 a.m. yesterday. Up to 8 a.m. today the water storage figure stood at 3,944 million gallons, the same time yesterday the figure was 3,850 million gallons.

But this latest figure was determined two hours before the rain eased off. Rain water will continue to pour into the reservoirs for some time from the catchment nullahs.

The water authority announced that up to 8 a.m. at Aberdeen, 2.75 inches of rain had been recorded, and at Shing Mun nearly three inches were recorded.

The first aircraft to land at the airport this morning was the Pan American flight from Tokyo, which touched down at 10.25 some three and a half hours behind schedule. After 10.30 the rain had eased to a drizzle and the fog had cleared. Flooding outside the waiting rooms subsided soon after.

Another PAA flight from Bangkok was diverted to Manila at 0.45 a.m. Only one plane took off up to 10.30 a.m., which was a CPA flight for Bangkok. It left Kai Tak at 0.02 a.m.

Big Four Approaching Talks' Crucial Stage

Geneva, June 1. The Big Four foreign ministers resume their secret talks here today amid signs that their negotiations on Berlin are approaching a crucial stage.

They are meeting in the villa of Mr Andrei Gromyko of Russia at the start of a week in which they are expected to face their main decisions.

The three-week-old conference is facing deadlock over conflicting plans for a Berlin settlement.

Prince Richard Adopts Nigerian-Leper

Lagos, May 31. Prince Richard, 14-year-old son of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, has "adopted" a Nigerian boy who is afflicted with leprosy, it was disclosed here today.

The boy lives at the Church of Scotland leper settlement in Ilu, Eastern Nigeria, and the "adoption"—which means that Prince Richard will pay the boy's treatment expenses—was arranged through the Nigerian branch of the British Leprosy Relief Association by the Duke and Duchess.

The royal couple left here by air today for London after an 18-day visit to Nigeria.—China Mail Special.

Key Work

Key work at the conference is now taking place in the restricted meetings. No date has been fixed yet for the next plenary session.

The Western ministers are expected to meet this morning to prepare for the negotiating session with Mr Gromyko. Dr Heinrich von Brentano, the West German Foreign Minister, will attend the Western consultations.—Reuter.

China May Join A-Bomb Powers

Geneva, May 31. Diplomats on both sides of the Iron Curtain are worried that China may soon possess enough fissionable material to build a home-made A-bomb, informed sources reported today.

One report was circulating in official circles here—without confirmation—that the Peking regime may actually be planning a test explosion this autumn.—UPI.

'Savage & Inhuman' Says Bishop

London, May 31. A prominent clergyman last night attacked as "savage and inhuman" a gaol sentence handed down for a widow who took money for sewing and didn't tell pension officials about it.

Mrs Ethel Christos, the widow of a mother of four children, was sentenced to two months in gaol last week for making false representations to get National Assistance Welfare payments.

She admitted taking in sewing to supplement the £5 per week which her welfare cheque gave her without declaring the £2 or £3 the sewing brought her.

Mrs Christos, 59, said she had turned to sewing for extra income to help her three youngest children, who were ill with tuberculosis.

The new Bishop of Southwark, the Rt Rev. Morwyn Stockwood, bitterly attacked the magistrate who passed the sentence.

"I can only conclude that the magistrate... needs a course of instruction in the virtues of compassion and mercy," Dr Stockwood said. "I shall be more than ready to give him the instruction."

"I regard the sentence passed on her as savage and inhuman."—UPI.

SHORT SKIRTS MORE LEGS

New York, May 31. The Artists Group of America said today shorter skirts were bringing more attention to women's legs than ever before and that a "woman's legs reflect her personality."

The Artists Group polled its members for the 10 women in America with the most interesting legs. Named were: Debbie Reynolds, Anita Ekberg, Kim Novak, Elaine May, Kathlyn Grant, Betty Grable, Jean Martin, Shirley Maclaine, Cyd Charisse and Lisa Kirk.—UPI.

Judge Criticises Woman Juror

Mr Justice J. R. Gregg in the Supreme Court today severely criticised a European woman juror who asked to be excused from serving in a murder trial because she had two young babies.

A jury of six women and one man had been empanelled to try Ng Yin, 40, unemployed, who has pleaded not guilty to murdering a woman, Yau Man-wan, on November 20, 1958, at Foo Aed new village, Kowloon.

As she was about to be sworn in, the woman stood up and asked Mr Justice Gregg to release her from jury service. "I have two young babies to look after," she said.

Mr Justice Gregg told her: "This point should not have been raised in the jury box. You should have written to the registrar before."

"People cannot be excused from duty as jurors because they have babies to look after." The woman, sobbing, told his Lordship the two babies were twins, aged eight months.

Mr Justice Gregg said: "I repeat, that this is the wrong time to ask to be excused."

JUDGE'S RULING

"The proper time was before-hand."

The Crown Counsel, Mr D. Rea, then asked that the woman be excused.

His Lordship said that in the circumstances he would allow her to stand down.

The dejected barrister, Mr Oswald Cheung, later objected to another woman juror because he knew her personally.

She was ordered to stand down.

Mr Rea is assisted by Mr D. G. Willis.

Mr Cheung is instructed by Mr William Wong, of M. K. Lam and Co.

WHALE SWIMS INTO SHIP COMING TO HK

A whale swam into the side of the President Hoover during the liner's passage from America to Hongkong.

This was revealed today by passengers who said the ship arrived in the Colony.

The log book and Captain Fred E. Angrick verified the story. The President Hoover was steaming into the harbor near Yokohama when a 35-foot whale-bumped into the ship.

The log entry says: "At 10.03 a whale bumped into the port side at the aft end of No. 3 hatch, approximately four feet below the surface."

After bumping the vessel, the ship maneuvered to avoid entangling the whale in the propellers. The ship was not damaged.

Skinny PCs Needed

Newcastle, May 31. Police headquarters sent out an urgent call today for all skinny constables to report immediately to a warehouse in the centre of town to try to catch a burglar.

The burglar had entered the warehouse through a skylight, and all the policemen who investigated the situation were too big to get through the opening.

Two thin constables answered the urgent call, went through the skylight, and captured their thin prey.—UPI.

CLERGY ACCUSE CHINESE OF SHOCKING ATROCITIES

HELP FOR ASIA URGED

New York, June 2. Mr. Douglas Dillon, the acting Secretary of State, today appealed to America's private enterprise to do more to help increase the productivity of underdeveloped countries—particularly in Africa and Asia.

Mr. Dillon, in a prepared address to the Graduate School of Business at Columbia University, declared that international Communism had openly named the economically weak areas of the world as major targets in its campaign to undermine the West.

"The total offensive is therefore aimed at penetrating and capturing the underdeveloped countries of Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America," he said.

"Whether or not they succeed will be determined, not only by our actions as a government, but also, and to an important extent, by the role played by private enterprise in furthering our country's foreign policy in the underdeveloped world," he said.

Washington, May 31.

Congressional investigators today made public testimony accusing the Chinese Communists of atrocities rivalling those of the black days of Buchenwald.

The testimony, given by Christian missionaries who served in the Orient, charged the Communists with the murder of 30 million Chinese over the past 10 years.

The witnesses also told the House Committee on un-American Activities that the Chinese people were resisting the commune system by killing livestock, burning their crops and fighting from the mountains as guerrillas.

The testimony, which was given in secret, painted a grim picture of life in the communes, where family units are completely broken up, separating wives, husbands and children.

The Rev. Shih-ping Wang, now East Asia director for a Baptist group, said this is what happens to old people.

"All the elderly people 60 years of age and above who cannot work are put in the old people's 'happy home'. After they are placed in the homes, they are placed in a room for their health... they die within two weeks.

"After they die, the corpses are placed in vats. When bodies decay and maggots get in, the maggots are used to feed chickens. The remainder of the body is used for fertilizer."

Family Ties Cut

"In Hongkong," he said, "the people do not eat chickens imported from the mainland because of the food fed to the chickens."

He said the Chinese also are digging up old graves and using the bones for fertilizer.

"To dig up the graves is to sever family ties completely," he said. "Chinese people revere their ancestors. Digging up the graves is the Communist method of severing all connections with tradition and the past."

The Rev. Wang gave this description of commune family life.

"Husbands and wives may meet only once a week for two hours. Because these places of meeting are few, couples must stand in line at the special rooms waiting their turn.

"And after they are finished, they must report to the commune group leaders to tell the date and time and how long they stayed together. They must also report what they said and did together."

No Names

"The parents may see their children once a week and when they see them they cannot show affection toward their children. The idea is to have the children and the family sever their affection and direct it toward the state."

"Names are taken away from the children and they are given numbers. There is no individual identity...."

Another witness, the Rev. Samuel W. S. Cheng, now a church mission leader in Taipei, described what happened to the family of a member of the Chinese Nationalist House of Representatives.

"His family and his cousins, brothers, all relatives — altogether 180 people — have been killed," he said.

Torn By Horses

The minister said the oldest brother of the lawmaker went back to China in 1957 for peace negotiations and had been heard from since.

The Rev. Cheng said the legislator's sister-in-law was tied to five horses by the Reds.

"One horse was tied to her neck," he said, "and the other horses were tied to her arms and legs and they went in all directions.

"The biggest horse ran and it just tore her body into pieces. The blood streamed all over the public square and the people shut their eyes and cried. They could not stand to see it," he said.

REQUEST CABLED TO MAO

Yonkers, N.Y., May 31. A group in Yonkers called "The Citizens Committee of Yonkers" has cabled Mao Tse-tung requesting the release of Hugh F. Redmond Jr., whose father died here on Friday.

The prisoner was arrested eight years ago by the Communists and sentenced to life imprisonment on an espionage charge.

The cable signed by the chairman of the committee, William Gawchick, and addressed to Mao Tse-tung, reads:

"Honorable Sir, Hugh Francis Redmond Jr.'s father died here on Friday, June 2. We the people of Yonkers petition you to let Hugh Francis Redmond Jr., eldest son, come home to pay his final mother to support his elderly and to help support his family. We ask you to greatly consider this petition in this great hour of sorrow. Respectfully yours, —AFF.

AUTO HEIR'S WIFE PLANS TO BUILD GIRLS' TOWN

Palm Beach, Fla., May 31. Pretty Gregg Sherwood Dodge, who stepped from a chorus line to wed auto heir Horace Dodge II, said today she plans to devote the rest of her life to caring for homeless girls.

Mrs. Dodge said she already has raised $2,500,000 in cash and pledges for a "Girls' Town, USA," in South Florida to be patterned after the famous boys' town in Nebraska.

"I want to devote the rest of my life to this," said the one-time actress whose name has hit the headlines in recent years for alleged drunk-driving and abuse of police officers, and in connection with suits to collect unpaid bills of her millionaire husband.

THE UN REPORTS ON— Marriage—The World Around

United Nations, May 31. Alaska and the Falkland Islands are the happy hunting ground for any girl looking for a husband—and Ireland is the worst place in the world to find one, the United Nations disclosed today.

In its demographic yearbook, the U.N. disclosed that in Alaska and the Falklands more than 200 women out of 1,000 get married every year, compared with 87 in the United States and 20 in Central America.

Men have the greatest chances for finding a bride in East Germany—with a rate of 113 men out of 1,000 marrying each year.

West Germany, Poland and Eastern Europe in general offer the best possibilities for a bachelor seeking a wife.

But Ireland is the worst all around. Thirty-one per cent of its male population are still bachelors at the age of 45—the highest percentage in the world. For every 25 per cent of the women are still unmarried at 45.

The average age for marriage in the world is 24 for women and 27 for men. In the United States, the average is 22 for girls and 24 for men. In French Guiana they look before they leap—and the average is 31. Married people live longer than single ones, the yearbook reported, concluding that marriage was good for the health providing that the spouses do not divorce, for divorces cut down longevity.

The yearbook pointed out the disparity in divorce rates, ranging from 10 in countries where a simple statement of intention is sufficient to dissolve a union, to Catholic countries where there is no divorce.

There are — not unnaturally — more divorces in countries where they are easier to obtain than in countries where they are difficult.

The United States heads the list of those with the highest divorce rate, with 22 divorces for every 1,000 inhabitants.

How soon does the urge to divorce appear? In less than three years after the marriage, in less than six years in the United States, after eight years in Switzerland, nine years in France, Sweden and Norway, and after eleven years in England — and after 15 years in Portugal, on an average.—AFF.

Duke And Duchess Return

Lagos, Nigeria, May 31. The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester left in a Comet-4 jet airliner for London today after an 18-day visit to Nigeria.

Nigeria's Governor-General, Sir James Robertson, and the Federal Prime Minister, Mr. Abacha Tafawa Balewa, accompanied them to the airport.

Fifteen minutes after the Comet took off—in a fairly heavy mist—the Duke sent a message to Sir James expressing his delight at the welcome he and the Duchess had received throughout Nigeria.

"Neither of us will ever forget the splendour of the scenes we witnessed at Kaduna. We left the northern region confident in its future," the message said.—Reuter.

Macmillan's White Fur Hat Was A Riot In Russia

The Hat

London, June 1. Mr. Harold Macmillan, the Prime Minister, created a "barbaric sensation" when he arrived in Moscow last February wearing a white fur hat, it was reported here today.

The report appeared in a new book entitled "Frigid's Progress in Russia" written by Mr. Henry Hughes, a Labour Party M.P. who accompanied the Prime Minister to the Soviet capital.

"Down the gangway came a strangely apparelled figure with a white fur hat that looked more like a bunny than the black fur hats the Russians were wearing. "Could this be Mr. Macmillan? It was the strange hat that made everybody look and gasp.

"COULD THIS BE THE PM OF BRITAIN?"

"Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Nikoyan looked up incredulously. Could this really be the Prime Minister of Great Britain or had the Grand Lama of Tibet arrived instead?"

Mr. Hughes said Mr. Macmillan "had gone more Russian than the Russians." He also said that Mr. Macmillan "made some remarkable speeches in Russia for a Conservative Prime Minister. Very few people outside the Communist Party had spoken in more glowing terms of Soviet achievements," he said.

CONCLUDING VICTOR HUDSON'S REPORT ON...

The Devotees Of Satan

YOU may find it hard to credit the story of the former squadron leader of the Royal Air Force who carries on his leg the brand of a goat's hoof — the brand of the Devil — a brand not always visible, and not made by any human agency. You may believe — because you WANT to believe — that black magic has no place in twentieth-century civilisation.

If you still think that way, listen to ex-Detective Superintendent Robert Fabian, formerly of Scotland Yard.

"Of course black magic parties take place in London. I could pick up a telephone now and dial the number of a man who practises the most abominable rituals regularly.

"He would take you down into the cellar of his apartment house and through a passage leading to the cellars of another of his houses in the next street.

"A winding metal stairway leads up through a disused shaft and halts at a black padded door which is the entrance to a loathsome temple of evil.

"There the black magic worshippers move, half-dragged, too dazed to feel pain, conscience or repulsion."

It is not only depraved creatures of the world's capital cities who take part in these evil rites.

People from smaller cities come in and pay heavy fees to take part in revolting Black Magic ceremonies — in temples like the one described by Fabian, temples established by little groups of satanic devotees who rise, fester, and then disperse.

The police face an immense task in dealing with black magic practitioners. Private parties in houses are almost impossible to "crack" at the time, or to get witnesses from later.

Black Mass obscenities have been worked out for centuries to elude and escape the Law.

"Suppose," says Fabian, "that a policeman should manage to worm her way into a black mass."

"Her hands are tied behind her back in the form of a cross. An 'inquisitor' in a monk's cowl flags her to make her 'confess'."

HANDS TIED

"What is she to confess? There is a secret pattern laid down... secret infamies to give away."

"Immediately, the policeman's deception would be spotted."

Nor could many of the girls lured into the vicious circle help the police, even if they wished to do so.

One such girl told me of the day a kindly, middle-aged man invited her to a private party for some friends.

"When we went into the flat, I felt sick with the strong smell of perfume or incense," she says. "A lady gave me a drink, but all that did was to make me feel I didn't care what happened."

"In a bedroom two other girls were changing out of their clothes into long woollen veils. I was persuaded to do the same."

"Pretending it was all a bit of fun, the lady tied our hands behind our backs."

"Later, before a kind of altar in the big main room, the lady of the house appeared dressed as a high priestess.

One girl, almost naked, was laid on the altar, and as the priestess and her attendant praises called on Satan to help them, blood was poured over her body."

The girl says this mass took place at an address in South Kensington, one of London's most select districts.

"But I don't know London well and couldn't tell where the flat was, so I didn't go to the police."

Well, there it is. I have told you of a man who has tried to give up the devil, but doesn't know whether the devil has given him up.

And I have told you what Fabian of the Yard says.

There is only one thing more. A final warning from Fabian:

"Black magic is depravity at its worst, and I warn every one of you that if at any time one of its disciples sets out to try and contaminate you with its touch, run from it for your life."

The deadliest word in a nation's vocabulary ... but there is news that could end its power...

by PETER JOHNSON

AMERICA has launched a nationwide crack-down on the Mafia, powerful organisation that controls the nation's underworld. Twenty-one leaders are under arrest for criminal conspiracy. More are sought in the biggest drive against the mobsters ever undertaken. Today, many of the gang leaders in New York, Chicago and San Francisco are in hiding and the underworld is waiting for the next moves in the fight against the Mafia.

"GOOD morning, sir," said the store-keeper to the very important customer. "Good morning; it's a wonderful day, isn't it?"

A wonderful day it was for Francesco ("Frank") Scialise, aged 55, as he called in at Enrico Mazzarzo's fruit and vegetable shop in the Bronx.

The good people of Arthur Avenue saluted him.

Here he was, Don Francesco, the owner of a prosperous plastering business in the bustling, thriving Bronx; Don Francesco, upon whose word depended nearly every building firm in the district: Don Francesco, who controlled the gambling and drugs.

He tucked a 50-cent bag of fruit under his arm and paused to count the change from a five-dollar bill. Neither he nor Enrico, the proprietor, noticed the two young men in shirt sleeves who walked in at that moment.

Bullets

Expertly, calmly, they put four .38 bullets into Don Francesco's head, pocketed their revolvers, climbed into an old black sedan, and drove away.

Don Francesco's wonderful day was over — by order of the Mafia.

New York police filled in the records. Homicide at 2300 Arthur Avenue, all the elements of a gang killing.

A similar entry was to be made four months later in that year 1957, when Albert ("Boom") Anastasia, for years chief executioner of Murder Inc., was shot down as he sprawled in the chair of the Park Sheraton Hotel barber's shop.

Neither dossier was ever closed by the police. True, two bullet-ridden bodies were found in a suburban back street of Jersey City soon after the Anastasia killing in October of 1937 — the killers, silenced by the Mafia bosses.

Omeria

The police knew this much: both Scialise and Anastasia were murdered because they had grown too big for their boots in the nationwide crime network controlled by the Mafia. Scialise had bungled a big drug import deal; Anastasia had tried to muscle in on somebody else's gambling territory.

The Mafia is not a secret society. It has no elected officers, no written laws, no headquarters. It is a brotherhood based on family relationships which go back many generations to its birthplace, Sicily.

THE MAFIA originated in Sicily. It is said to derive its name from the initials of the phrase "Morte alla Franche Italia anela" ("Death to the French in Italy"), a slogan of the anti-French mobs in the nineteenth century. From the Sicilian underworld movement of those days and later in the Bourbon era, grew the criminal society.

Through years of incubation in the United States, its members have taken control of the nation's underworld. The syndicate runs nearly every racket from refuse collection to call girls and drugs.

Largely because of it, say the F.B.I., one dollar in every 10 that an American spends goes as tribute to the underworld.

Mafia has no front. Its members are always careful to conceal all traces of the brotherhood in dealings with the police and public. Its strictest code is that of omertà — silence.

But Mafia came out into the open after the Anastasia and Scialise killings. It was the biggest blunder in its long, vicious history — and one that can prove crippling.

Meeting

To the 150,000-dollar home of wealthy Joseph Barbara, in Apalachin, New York, came 63 well-suited, cigar-chewing "business men" in the late autumn of 1957.

"We called on Joe because he had been ill and we wanted to see how he was getting along," they told State investigators later.

But Joe was obviously expecting his sick-visitors. Flet mignon and veal cutlets sizzled in the barbecue pit. Bottles of Scotch, bourbon, and champagne were stacked by the score.

The scene was set for the Great All-American Crime Convention.

The Mafia was worried. The New York excursions had upset many of its members. Problems arose from them. Who was going to take over Scialise's building empire, Anastasia's drugs racket?

Members were called from New York, from California, Texas, Michigan, Florida, and Cuba — even from Italy, to meet at the summer home of Joe Barbara, a merchant who controlled a huge soft drink distribution industry. It was to be a secret meeting, but the Mafia reckoned without a bright young C.I.D. sergeant, Edgar Cowell.

He noticed the Cadillacs, the Chrysler Imperials, and the Lincoln, purring up to the glass-fronted house in the trees. He let them all in then put up road blocks all round the Barbara home.

Sicilian Bartolo Guccio, delivering fish to the party, burst in with the startling news: "Police! They're all over the place!"

Truth

The moguls of America's underworld dropped their steaks and bolted into the woods. Everyone was rounded up. They were held for questioning, then released. Later an investigation committee quizzed them on the purpose of the meeting, but tongues were sealed by omertà.

Typical was beefy John Montana, a prominent citizen of Buffalo. "My Cadillac broke down and I called in at Joe's to get it fixed," he said. "He, a criminal? Why, I'm a great friend of Richard Nixon." (This was immediately denied by vice-President Nixon.)

Today John Montana and 20 other fraternal delegates from Apalachin stand accused of criminal conspiracy. After months of investigation police have found a way to crack down on Mafia — with indictments for refusing to tell the truth about the crime conference.

Penalty

Six Mafia men are still being sought and the remaining 30 are named as co-conspirators.

Co-conspirators can get special treatment in American courts if they agree to give evidence against the others. Investigators hope that some of the weaker Mafia men will crack.

It will not be easy. Police know too well the meaning of omertà. They know too that the Mafia's penalty for breaking the code is death.

They remember the testimony of murdered Frank Scialise.

Giacomino, brother of the murdered Frank Scialise, the Bronx fruit shop just after the killing and throw himself, weeping, on his brother's body.

"Death to the murderers," he shouted. "We shall find them."

Hours later, after the hysteria had passed, his attitude changed. "What enemies?" he said to police. "Frank didn't have no enemies. This was some kind of mistake."

Bonn. THE ruler-straight back of Dr Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's Chancellor for 10 years, betrays no sign of the 83 years and four months it bears as up 57 steep steps of his Rhine villa the old man climbs.

No cable car, no wheeled chair for this indomitable figure who has led Germany from utter defeat to near-mastery of Europe. Yet even as he schemes and broods in lofty loneliness one thing is slowly emerging from this ramshackle capital of Bonn.

The end of a decade of authoritarian rule is in sight. In less than six weeks Adenauer will be elected President of the Republic, a non-political job which in his mind he had reserved for the man likely to succeed him as Chancellor, and the man he wants least of all to do so — economics boss Ludwig Erhard. To be sure he is trying to create a formula to preserve his power.

He proclaims he will make the office of President more important, more significant than it has been under scholarly Professor Heuss.

Inflexion

The Old Fox his admirers call him affectionately. The Old Fox his enemies call him, with a bitter inflexion of the voice.

But already the rats are leaving the sinking ship. Even though Adenauer is not sinking without a fight, nothing, it seems, can rescue him.

MISTAKE NO. 1 was trying to kick Erhard upstairs. Erhard was willing but the party was not, for he is the front man in the miracle of German economic recovery, the man responsible for giving Germans clothes, cars, food, fridges, radios, and houses.

MISTAKE NO. 2 was his proclamation to retain power as President. This aroused the suspicion of influential members of his own party that he intended to tamper with the Constitution, and the memory of Adolf Hitler is too risky to let that happen.

not to mention the reactions of the Western democracies. But in the past, while Erhard was flooding the market with consumer goods, proclaiming the continuance of liberal trade, and enabling industry to capture overseas markets, Dr Adenauer was able to carry through the main planks of his foreign policy.

Policy

They were simple. Rearmament, an entente with France at all costs (including the Saar, if necessary) and the gradual weakening of British influence and power not only on the Continent but throughout the world.

He went all out to convince the United States that Germany would be a loyal partner in the crusade against Communism. He cultivated Ike and almost flung himself at the feet of John Foster Dulles.

He thought he had everything prepared to lead his party in the 1961 elections — indeed, he said so.

But more and more the party caucus detected signs of rigid inflexibility in his policy. More and more they became alarmed at his thinly veiled hostility to Britain.

Indeed, this culminated in a sly aside from the Speaker of the Lower House Dr Gerstenmaier, after one secret session of the party in Adenauer's office.

"We have just promised the old man not to mention that he made an attack on the British," he said.

With his failure to get rid of Erhard, and faced with insurmountable opposition to rule as President, Dr Adenauer was busily reorganising his beliefs.

His latest scheme is to give in over the next Chancellor in return for selecting the Vice-Chancellor, the Minister of the Interior, and the Prime Minister.

As Vice-Chancellor he wanted his old and tried friend, Dr Krone, now chairman of the parliamentary party. With it would be linked the chairmanship of the National Party, with Adenauer in the background holding the reins.

Already the party has shown it will have none of it, and Erhard is reported to have insisted that he will, if elected Chancellor, retain all the reins of office in his own hands. "I do not want your help or advice," is his attitude.

There are some who still believe Dr Adenauer can believe Dr Adenauer.

As Chancellor he has patronised, dismissed, appointed, and with foreign statesmen he had approved, and the head-pat of ligious convictions, and confidential approval for someone who did well for the Fatherland. As President all this will disappear.

Problems

I for one, will miss this lonely figure whose rigid mind has never departed from the target of Adenauer's Deutschland Über Alles!

The man who, when British troops left Cologne in 1926, led the cheers with "Swear with me unity! Love the Fatherland! Shout with me 'Germany beloved Fatherland, Hall!'"

In his personal relationships, however, he was a different man. He was a man of un-Germanic accent, deep religious convictions, and confidential approval for someone

His problems were infinitely greater than Adenauer's who first unified Germany, for Dr Adenauer's Germany, discredited as a nation of mass murderers, barbaric militarists, and destroyers of European culture, had to be brought back to respectability.

I predict that Erhard, once he is Chancellor, will speedily change Germany's approach to Foreign Affairs. The old man will not like it any more than he likes Erhard's call to dismantle trade barriers. Adenauer sees in this a danger of offending the U.S.

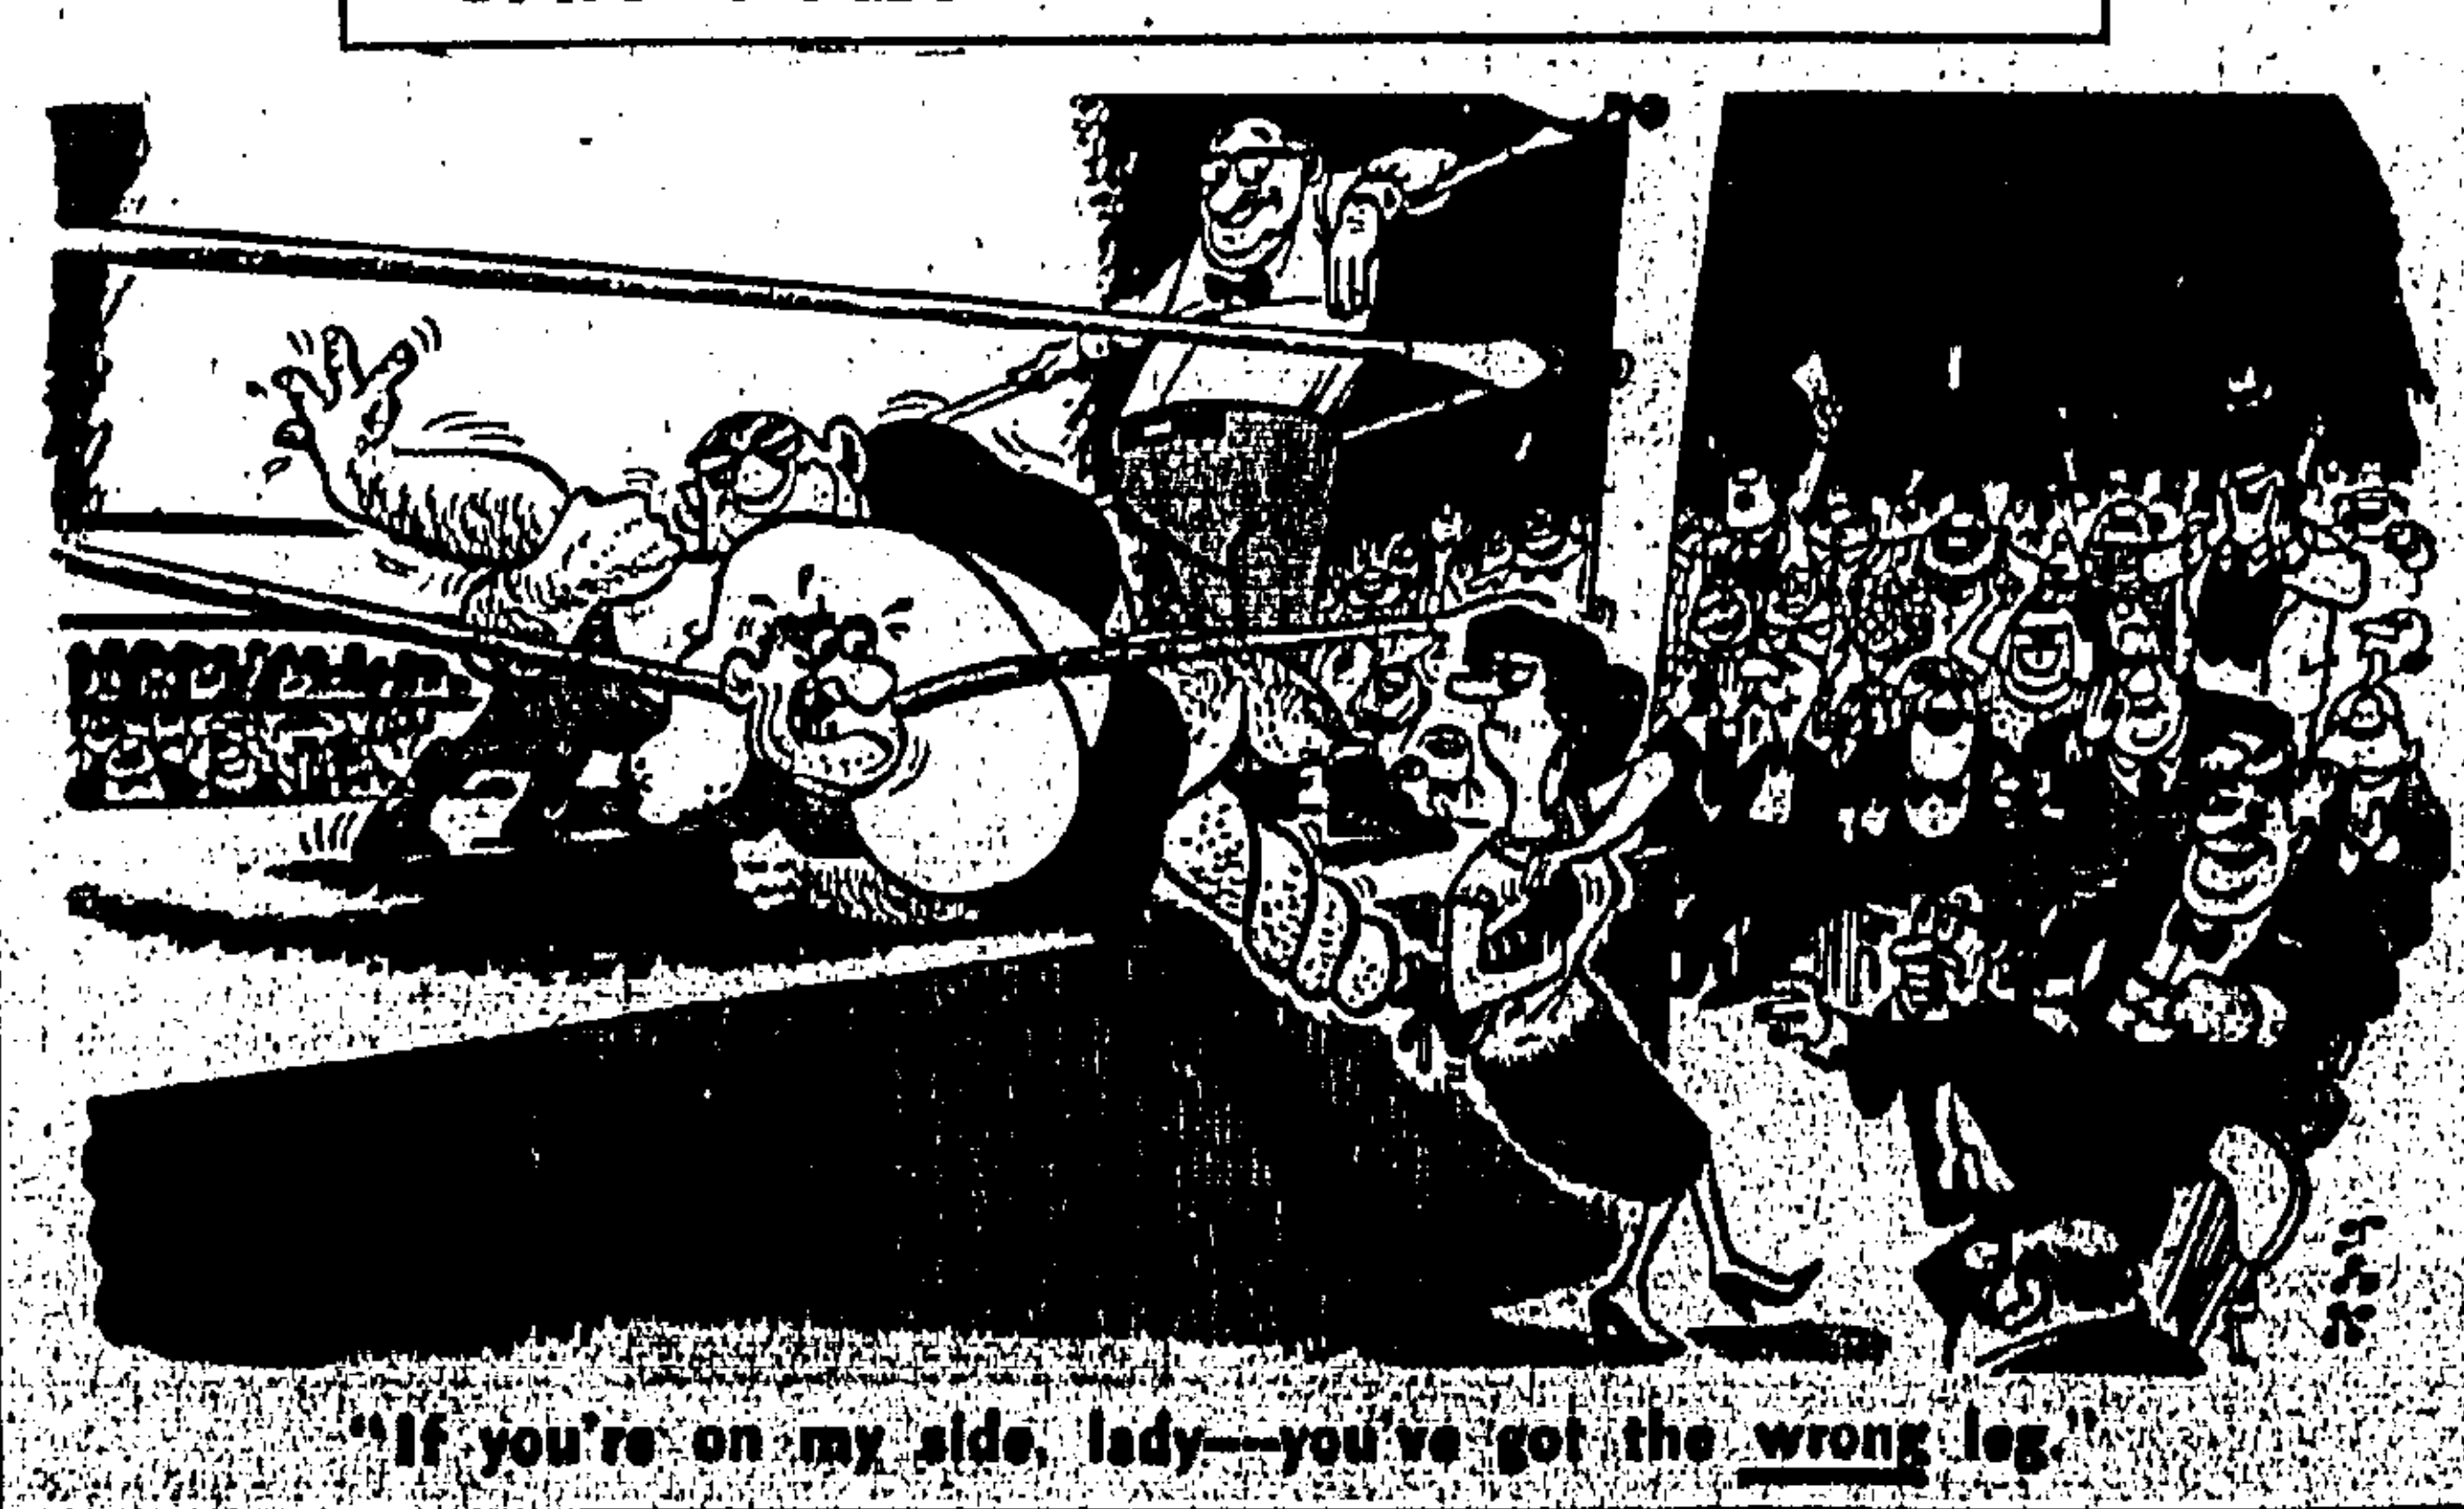

There are, too, Erhard's in his personal relationships, however, he was a different man. He was a man of un-Germanic accent, deep religious convictions, and confidential approval for someone

It is a forlorn hope.

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

MONDAY, JUNE 1

BORN today, you are original, inventive, optimistic and aggressive. These characteristics will carry you far along the road to success. You want your own way and intend to get it. You do have moods, however, and must guard against being thrust into the depths of depression by some minor upset which will have only a temporary effect on your career.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

IN a recent team of four, a North-South pair bid scientifically but not effectively to land in an unmakeable five club contract.

Their bidding is shown in the box. North thought he was too strong to raise his partner immediately. Then when South rebid his club, North was tempted to pass but finally decided to raise to four whereupon South completed the dip in the soup by going on to five.

At the other table the bidding may not have been scientific but it certainly was effective. North gave an immediate club raise after West's overcall and South went to two no-trump in spite of the singleton.

As I have pointed out many times you can't get "a no-trump game unless someone bids no-trump and South did bid no-trump.

North's raise to three no-trump was perfectly normal and it was up to West to make the opening lead.

If he had put his hand on a diamond South would have been set but West only looked at 13 cards. He opened the three of spades.

South rattled off three spades and six club tricks and that was enough.

WORLD TITLE ELIMINATION FIGHT

Al Asuncion To Meet Gilroy For Right To Take On Halimi

London, May 31.

An unofficial final eliminator for the bantamweight championship of the world will take place on Tuesday night at London's Empire Pool at Wembley.

The fight will be between Al Asuncion, champion of the Philippines, and Ireland's Freddie Gilroy, champion of Great Britain and the British Empire.

Gilroy was originally scheduled to meet Italy's dead-end former world champion, Mario D'Amato, but when the Italian pulled out through injury, promoter Jack Solomons promptly snatched up the Filipino after his good showing against Alphonse Halimi, the world champion.

This ten-round bout can be considered an eliminator for the world title for Mr. Solomons has promised Gilroy a match with Halimi if he wins. On the other hand, if Asuncion wins, he is virtually certain to get a reserve side and so made their exit from the 1959 Stanley Shield Competition.

Intriguing Contest

Tuesday night's encounter is a most intriguing contest for both boxers are unknown in London. Yet, although the Belfast boy is British champion, he has never fought in the capital. There will be a full house to see it for all 10,000 seats have been sold.

In addition to the Asuncion-Gilroy bout, the customers will see an eagerly-awaited contest between Scotsman Bobby Nell, new British featherweight champion, and Terry Spinks, Olympic flyweight champion, whose youth has so far prevented him from fighting for the title. Nell and Spinks meet in a ten-round no-title fight.

As an appetiser, the spectators will also see Dave Rent, new British heavyweight hope who is under Al Wells's care in the United States, in action for the second time in Britain, against Frederico Friso of Italy, in another ten-rounder.

Fireworks

The Asuncion-Gilroy meeting is expected to provide plenty of fireworks for both boxers are similar in style, both carry punches. The Filipino was fired that the Irishman might be another Leo Espinosa, that is to say a boxer who darts in, scores and then back-pedals round the ring. Asuncion does not like that type of boxer but he has been answered on this point. The Irishman, typical of his race, loves to fight it out.

The snag from the Philippine point of view is that Gilroy is a southpaw and Asuncion has never met one before. His manager says he will overcome this by boxing close but that remains to be seen. Asuncion would not be the first boxer to be worried by an "other-way round" opponent.

From the point of view of experience, there is very little in it. Gilroy has had only 16 fights but is unbeaten. Asuncion has lost three of his 22 "pro" bouts.

Six Years Younger

There is a difference in age, the Irishman, at 23, being six years than the Asian boxer. However, the two have something in common: both have beaten Peter Keenan, former British champion, inside the distance. Asuncion knocked out the Scot when he was in his prime—in nine rounds in December 1956. Gilroy beat him for the British and Empire titles in 11 rounds in Belfast, early in January of this year and Keenan, already past his best, retired immediately afterwards.

So, it looks as if punching will decide the fight. Both carry heavy punches and it will remain to be seen who can stand up to the most.

COOK JOINS 'THE FASTEST HUMANS'

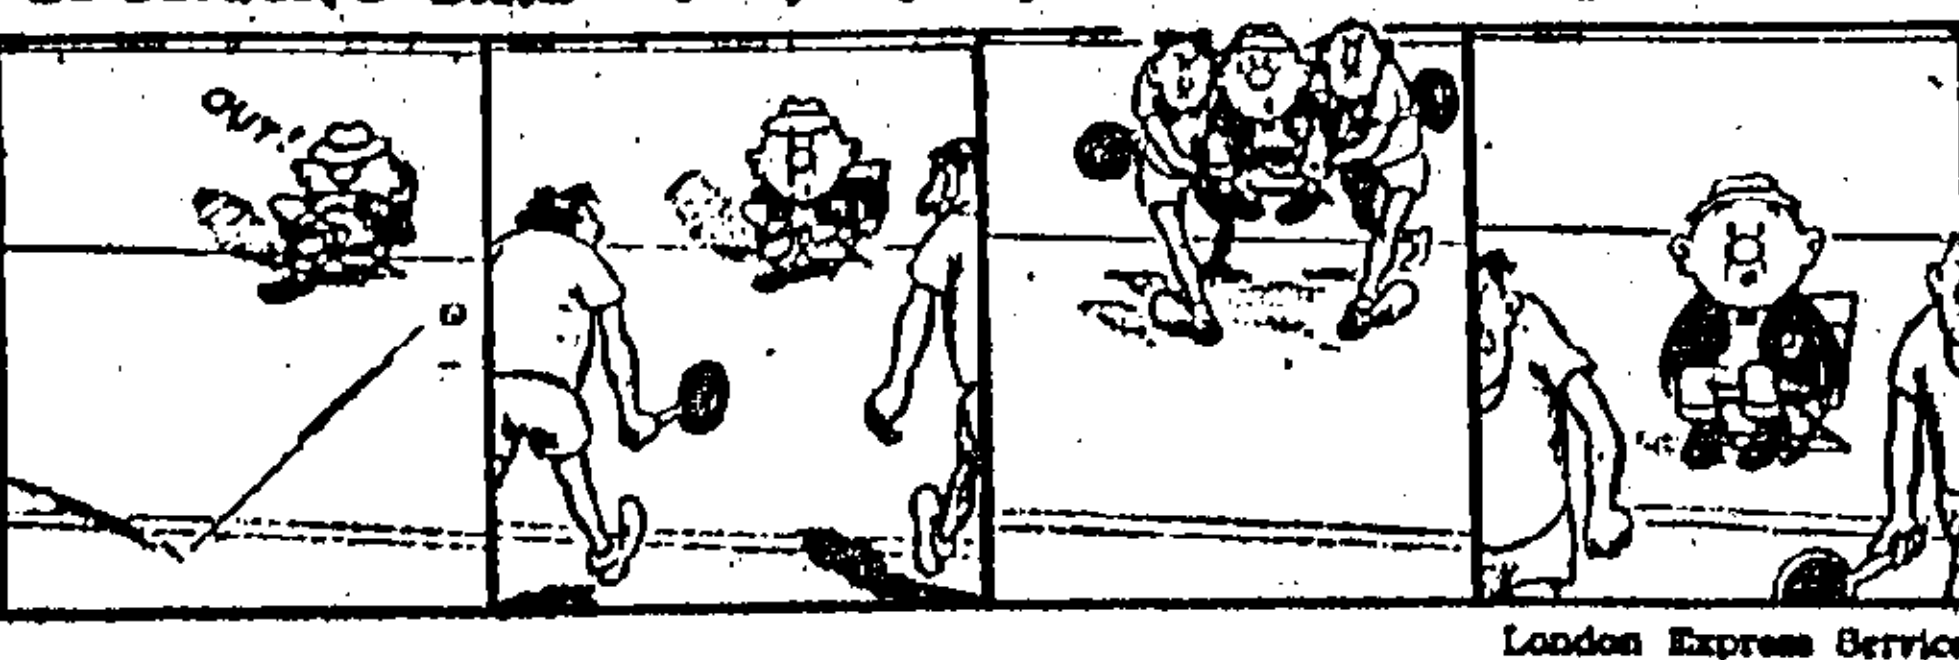

Modesto, May 31.

Roscoe Cook, a lad who admittedly "ran better than I knew how," moved in today with the elite sprinters of the world—the fastest humans who have been clocked in 9.9 seconds for the 100-yard dash.

Cook, a 20-year-old sophomore from University of Oregon, got in the select group the hard way. He beat Olympic champion Bobby Morrow, world record co-holder Ray Norton and a host of other top athletes in the California Meet last night. UPI.

ENGLAND SELECT 'NEW LOOK' CRICKET TEST TEAM AGAINST INDIA

Three New Caps Included

London, May 31.

England's cricket selectors have made an almost clean sweep in rebuilding the team for the first of this season's five Tests against India at Nottingham starting on Thursday.

After England's dismal display in Australia last winter a purge was anticipated and sure enough it came. This may be due in part to the fact that even the Selection Committee has been reconstituted. Gubby Allen remains chairman, but Herbert Sutcliffe and Doug Insole, the reigning Essex captain have been called in to help.

The final selection meeting today lasted nearly four hours. This is the team that was chosen:

P. B. H. May, Captain (Surrey) 28, K. F. Barrington (Surrey) 28, M. C. Cowdrey (Kent) 20, T. G. Evans (Kent) 28, T. Greenough (Lancashire) 27, M. J. Horton (Worcestershire) 25, C. A. Milton (Gloucestershire) 21, A. E. Moss (Middlesex) 28, J. B. Statham (Lancashire) 23, K. Taylor (Yorkshire) 23, F. A. Trueman (Yorkshire) 23—12th man: G. Pullar (Lancashire) 23, (for first two days).

Striking Feature

The striking feature of this eleven is the absence of such notable names as Laker, Lock, Tyson, Bailey, Grayson, Watson and Richardson. All have been discarded. Even Dexter and Mortimore, the two men who were flown out to Australia in an emergency to reinforce the side have been passed over, along with Subba Row.

Mr. Allen stated that Bailey and Dexter were not considered as neither is fully fit for bowling.

Only six of the 10 men who went to Australia are retained, namely, May, the captain, Cowdrey, Statham, Trueman, Evans and Milton. May's position as captain has been clarified, for the selectors have now appointed him skipper for all five matches against India so obviously he is the favourite to lead the England team in the West Indies next winter.

There are three new caps in Ken Taylor, Martin Horton and Tom Greenough.

90th Appearance

Ken Barrington and Alan Moss have twice played for England and now return to the fold, as they deserve on their recent form.

As expected, the side has been built round the two successful batsmen in Australia, May and Cowdrey, and the two successful bowlers, Statham and Trueman, together with the evergreen wicket-keeper Evans who will be making his 90th Test appearance. His ambition is to play 100 times for his country and as he is only 38 he may well become the first cricketer to attain that distinction.

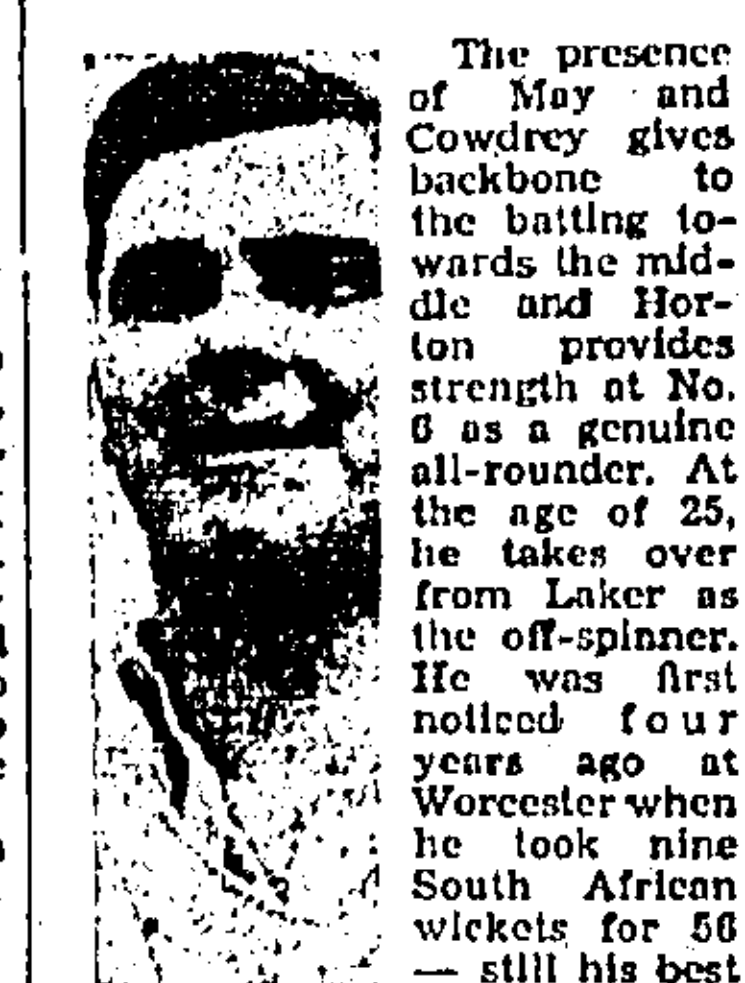

On this day Evans is still England's best wicket-keeper, and for that reason he maintains his place, irrespective of his decline as a batsman.

England will continue to carry a long tail with the last five places occupied by Evans, Trueman, Statham, Greenough and Moss. No doubt, this was something the selectors would have liked to avoid, but there is a general shortage of all-rounders, especially with both Bailey and Dexter pronounced unfit.

Milton and Taylor will open the batting as they did so successfully a week ago for MCC against India at Lord's. Milton was not a success in Australia, but twice he suffered a broken finger which caused him to return early and since then he has done well.

Taylor is a fine cricketer. He does not believe in allowing the bowler to dictate to him and if he gives England a good start by taking the initiative the runs should flow freely to the delight of the spectators, tired of so much negative play in modern Test cricket.

Another factor in Taylor's favour is his superb fielding. He can also enter the attack as a spinner, an asset shared by Barrington. Barrington, who will presumably bat in his No. 3 position (as he does for Surrey) possesses a fine array of forcing strokes and he, too, is a grand fielder.

Pace Bowlers

For years Indian cricket has been devoid of genuine fast bowling, and their uncertainty against pace has been taken into account. To reinforce Statham and Trueman, Moss has come back to the fold. The Middlesex man's inclusion will keep them fresh in short spells, and he gains preference over Tyson and Loader.

A leg-break bowler has at last been produced in Tom Greenough. Not for seven years (when India were last here) has England included a right-arm leg-spinner. Since then most of the spin has been supplied by Laker, Lock, Appleby and Wardle, but with the general improvement of pitches this season and the need to look ahead to the visit to West Indies, Greenough is the type England need.

Finally one notices the almost total disappearance of the left-hander from this new England team. Apart from Statham, the 12th man Pullar is the only left-handed batsman and with the passing of Lock, there is no left-arm bowler. This team will start off hot favourites against India, whose side, however, is little better than mediocre.—AFP.

RUSSIA, POLAND TAKE THREE EUROPEAN BOXING TITLES EACH

Lucerne, May 31.

Russia and Poland won three titles each today to emerge as the top teams in the European Amateur Boxing Championships.

Inside the limit in the finals, by knocking out defending light-heavyweight champion Cherogov of Romania in the second round.

Pietrzykowski, a 25-year-old mechanic, thus won his third straight European title. He captured the light-middleweight crown in 1955 and middleweight title in the last European championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia, two years ago.

Other champions retaining their titles were flyweight Manfred Hornberger of West Germany, light-welterweight Vladimir Vengharlan of Russia and light-middleweight Giovanni Benvenuti of Italy.

JOE BROWN TO DEFEND WORLD TITLE

New York, May 31.

Joe Brown attempts his seventh defence of the world lightweight crown and Nigerian Dick Tiger—middleweight champion of the British Empire—makes his United States debut this week.

Brown of New Orleans, 33, is favoured at 13-5 to turn back the challenge of Italian Paolo Rest at Uline Arena, Washington, D.C., on Wednesday night.

At Madison Square Garden on Friday night, 29-year-old Tiger will launch his American campaign for a shot at the world 100-pound title by meeting veteran Harry Calhoun of St. Albans, New York in a 10-rounder. Calhoun is favoured at 7-2.

For the Brown-Rest title fight at Washington, promoter Goldie Ahearn expects a sellout of 8,500 and a gate of $60,000. Rest of Italy and New York, 31, is the harder puncher. He was unbeaten in his last nine starts although he was held to one draw.—UPI.

THE STANLEY SHIELD South China Tame All Opposition To Win Another Title

By I. M. MACTAVISH

It was an all-South China occasion when the concluding rounds of the Stanley Shield were played last night. The Chinese stars who have just won their third double championship added the Stanley Shield to their collection... and they did it by beating their own second team in the Final!!!

All in all it was a grand achievement by the South China organisation but such a finish to the competition did not quite provide the fans with the sort of climax they wanted and thousands left the ground before the final game was played. They gave the second string no chance against the Yiu Cheuk-yin brigade. They were, as usual, right. If the final lacked anything in attraction the spectators got plenty to think and shout about in the earlier rounds... and if they happened to be KMB supporters their thoughts must have been pretty bitter.

Inglorious Season

Be reassured. The resounding crash which echoed through the Happy Valley area around half past eight last night was not an explosion... it was not an earthquake... it was the last shreds of KMB's self-respect being blown sky-high. The season's inglorious season came to a degrading close when, before a capacity crowd at the Hongkong Football Club Stadium they were thoroughly humiliated by seven unknown youngsters from South China's reserve side and so made their exit from the 1959 Stanley Shield Competition.

Don't get any idea that this was a fluke result. It was nothing of the kind and KMB, who had scraped through the earlier round by the skin of their teeth, were soundly thrashed by a collection of young players who cared nothing for reputations. The up and coming Carameo Hill side ran for miles in pursuit of the ball while the KMB 'stars' stood waiting for the breakers they were never able to create.

Of the big names in the line-up only Yiu Cheuk-yin looked as though he really cared very much whether his side won or lost, but for several brilliant saves by the goalkeeper, the two-nil margin by which the B team lost would have been much more decisive.

Good Value

The packed stands at the Colony's most intimate stadium got very good value for their money although strangely enough as soon as it was known that the final would be contested by the two South China sides the fans got up and started to leave the ground in their thousands. It was a fantastic spectacle to see spectators who had come with the sole purpose of seeing the final of the competition leaving before it was played.

The evening's programme of seven games got under way with the Army tackling South China 'B'. The soldiers never played the right kind of football to succeed in a seven-a-side match and any chance they had of winning disappeared when they lost a player for a time during the second half. They were finally beaten by the odd goal in three... and the South China second string had claimed their first senior scalp.

The second match brought together KMB's All-Star seven and Sing Tao's 'B' team. It was the Tigers who played like big teams. The B team, lacking in spirit and ideas and when full time was reached the scoresheet was all square. Extra time of five minutes each way was played and eventually—added by a couple of strange acts by the referee—KMB won by two goals to nil.

Next it was the turn of South China's senior representatives and they had little trouble in disposing of a plucky collection of Tai Koo student players by three goals to nil.

In the last of the quarter-final ties Sing Tao 'A' edged out KMB 'B' by a goal and three corners to a goal and two corners.

Greatest of Ease

First of all South China's juniors had their moment of well-deserved glory as they eliminated the gently tanned KMB 'A' team by two clear goals and then the South China seniors ambled over the Sing Tao 'A' hurdle with the greatest of ease. Their three-nil victory did not give even a hint of the Champions' overall superiority.

The final between the two South China teams was played in a half-empty stadium. It was an anticlimax. Goals by Mok Chun-wah, Kwok Kam-hung, Yiu Cheuk-yin and Ho Cheung-yue against one by Ho Chi-kwan gave the 'A' team a clear cut victory by four goals to one.

Something must be done about the lights at the Club Stadium. Last night there were great black shadow patches on the playing field while some of the ill-directed lamps were lighting up the spectators in the stands. They should be adjusted before the game tomorrow night.

Pittsburgh Pirates Score Double Win Over Cincinnati

New York, May 31.

Smoky Burgess and Bob Skinner tried to outdo each other with a spectacular pair of batting shows today that enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to sweep a doubleheader from the Cincinnati Reds, 6-2 and 14-11.

Burgess banged a pair of homers against his former teammates in the opener, then came off the bench and delivered a pinch three-run homer to snap an 11-1 tie in the seventh inning of the night game.

Skinner belted two homers in the second game.

Don Hook had a pretty fair day, too. He hit two homers in the opener and another in the night, winding up with six hits for the day.

The Milwaukee Braves split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies. Philadelphia won the opener, 6-0, and Milwaukee the night game, 2-1.

Robin Roberts pitched a four-hitter to beat Lew Burdette and gain his third victory in the first game as Wally Post and Willie Jones drove in five runs between them. Warren Spahn limited the Phils to four hits in registering his seventh victory in the nightcap.

Wes Covington's two-run hit in the first inning off Ray Semproch was all the margin Spahn needed in gaining the 25th triumph of his career.

That total ties him with Carl Hubbell in number of victories.

Bases Loaded

Antonelli struck out 11 men and drove in three runs as he ran his record to 7-2. He led the bases in the ninth, however, and Miller relieved him with two out. Dale Long singled for one run and left the bases loaded, but Orlando Cepeda grounded out to end the game.

Bob Schmidt homered for the Giants and Tony Taylor did for the Cubs. Glen Hobbie was the loser.

Home runs by Ray Jablonski and Charlie Neal helped Los Angeles to a 5-3 victory over the Giants, and Tony Taylor struck out nine, was the winner but needed help from Donny McDevitt.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

THE COLONEL ROARED: OFF KILTS

The Earl

And that gave 600
hard-bitten Highlanders the goosepimples

London.
Colonel the Earl of Airlie reined in his white charger, roared an order . . . and 600 hard-bitten Highland infantrymen blanched. For the order was: "Off with your kilts."
Lord Airlie, now Lord Chamberlain to the Queen and the Queen Mother, had heard a dreadful rumour. Some of his men were wearing unmentionables under their kilts.
In the House of Lords recently Lord Airlie said fiercely:
"So I undressed them. Had to repeat the order twice but they did it."
Six hundred buckles clinked. Six hundred kilts swished, and 1,200 legs began goose-pimpling in the breeze.
Then the Highlanders blanched again. Rumour was true. A handful of men were wearing what only a Sassenach should wear.

"Didn't have to say anything," Lord Airlie told a friend later. "It was a territorial battalion, y'know. Fine, wonderful fellows. Next morning on parade they all grinned like mad at me—and not a pair of knickers among
'em."

"Couldn't do it now. They'd sue you. You'd have to write to the M.P.s. Discipline was different then."
Said the Lord Chamberlain's friend: "It really did happen.
It's in Lord Airlie's dossier at the War Office."
Lord Airlie, in the Lords, had been talking about lack of discipline in Britain's youth. He told his fellow peers: "I was commanding officer of a Highland territorial battalion and I suspected that they were wearing something under their kilts."

Affection

"So I undressed 'em. I think I am the only officer who has undressed a Highland battalion on parade by the way. I was up at night in a cold sweat thinking what would happen if I did the same thing today."
"I doubt if they would do it. There was great affection between the soldiers and myself, and I have always looked back on it as the happiest moment of my life. I found out what I wanted to know."

At his club later Lord Airlie was changing before taking the train to his flat in Cortney Castle, Kenton, Angus.
He said: "Never give interviews. Never. Sorry. But all this happened just after the '44-48 war. I'm an old man
now. You know. [He is 69.]
And they were fine soldiers."
"Discipline's all different in this country today. That was what I was trying to say."

Only asked

Lord Airlie's story shocked old officers and men of the regiment. Colonel "Chick" Thomson, who commanded the 48th Black Watch T.A. Battalion

during the last war, admitted he had heard the story before.
But he added: "As far as I know, he only asked them to do it. That's as far as it went. Exactly what happened
I do not know."
"His lordship was always anything under the kilts. I would never disagree with anything his lordship says. If he said he did it, he did it."

Soprano's
Tour Hit
High C—
For Cash

Frankfurt.

The interest of German music lovers in a concert tour last month
by soprano Maria Callas hit high C—
for cash.

In a blitz tour of Germany —her first—Miss Callas sang in four famous concert halls.

Tickets for each appearance were sold out in a matter of hours, although they were the highest priced ever for such concerts in Germany.

Miss Callas sang on May 10 in Wiesbaden, May 15 in Hamburg, May 19 in Stuttgart and May 23 in Munich, and at each concert guards and ushers were reinforced to be able to cope with emergencies.
Knowing a Miss Callas concert to flash bulbs and the habit some Germans have of taking "canned" cameras to concerts, the tour impresarios set up special "camera check points" at the entrances.

Prices

Ticket prices ranged from five marks (HK$7.20) for standing accommodation to 100 marks (HK$144) for the best seats which, of course, were favourably (from the im-presario's point of view) with prices demanded for previous highlights of the music season.

In Hamburg, the previously highest concert prices—up to 60 marks (HK$80)—were asked for an appearance of an American Poppy and Bess groups.

Top ticket prices for the Moscow Bolshoi Ballet were 50 marks (HK$72)—UPI.

Jayne (IN RED) Pines For Serious Roles

Hollywood.
Wearing a red bikini and a straight face, Jayne Mansfield has announced her intention of playing nothing but serious movie roles in the future.

She feels her talents have been buried too long.
Miss Mansfield described her ambition while loitering around the lawn of her two-acre Beverly Hills estate.

Outside, on Sunset Blvd., brakes screeched as male drivers caught glimpses of her through her pink front gate.

"I'm not what I appear to be at all," alighted the platinum-haired actress. "To me, the most glamorous woman in the world is a mother."

Final glimpse

Miss Mansfield proclaimed that the final public glimpse of the "old Jayne" will occur when she opens a six-week engagement at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas.

"I'm getting $25,000 a week, plus expenses, to appear," she said, "so I figured it would be worth delaying my chance a little longer."

Miss Mansfield said she wanted to make clear that her new dignity would not deny her public an occasional glance—or more—of her renowned shape.
After all, she doesn't want to overdo it.

The house

"A lady," she said, "should be able to look sophisticated in a elegant evening gown and blossom forth like a rosebud in a bikini."
At this point, blossoming forth in her bikini she rose from her chair and said: "Let's take a look at the house."

Vallee, is, to say the least, a unique experience.

Rock 'n' roll music blared into the rooms over a loudspeaker system. Nice dogs of assorted shapes and sizes scampered all over the place, yelping.

There are so many rooms
nobody has bothered to count them, but a census has revealed there are 11 bathrooms.

One of these, Miss Mansfield's, is pink-carpeted not only on the floor but on the walls and ceiling too. In the middle sits the actress' gold-coloured, heart-shaped bathtub.

Private mountain

"It was Mickey's idea," she said, referring to her husband, musician Mickey Hargitay.

There is a heart-shaped swimming pool. The living room has two Spanish-type balconies and a large fountain with a Cupid that starts spouting water if you turn on the light switch. And there's an elevator—although it's only a two-story home.

Leading the way outside again,
Miss Mansfield pointed to Hargitay, who was standing next to a hill of dirt in work clothes.

"Mickey's building me a private mountain here," she said.

What kind?
"I don't know. One with rock on it," she said.

Looking over her property, Miss Mansfield confessed it was amazing how well she has done considering the way her talents have been buried.—UPI.

Eleanor
Roosevelt Tells Of Visit To Hongkong

By JOHN LUFF

In an autobiographical encounter, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt tells of the life she arranged for herself after the death of her famous statesman husband.

An extremely shrewd woman, her observation of events and people is remarkably clear, and her writing style and precise expression enables her to dilate the most remarkable events in a few words.

In fact, so casual does some aside seem, that the reader has swallowed the bait and is on the hook before he is aware anything has happened.

Those who have lived in Hongkong for a few years might recall Mrs. Roosevelt's visit here. She has some observations to make, and she sums up the Chinese situation well, but in a manner opposed to that of the generally accepted American view.

"I could not go to Taipei and not see Madame Chiang. But I knew that if I saw her I would have to tell her I did not think her dream of regaining China was possible."

Refreshing

Now that is rather refreshing.
Just what we have been saying for ages. But to read it from the pen of Mrs. Roosevelt is refreshing, more so, when we realize that Madame Chiang Kai-shek governs US relations with Britain on this particularly sensitive point.

However, if Mrs. Roosevelt puts us with one hand, she thumps us with the other. She shares with her late husband that rather patronizing attitude to British royalty.

She enjoys, with almost feline satisfaction, the fact that she arrives in London with only two dresses, whereas the Queen arrives with the American Continent with a wardrobe.

One gets the impression that Mrs. Roosevelt feels she is more representative of the masses on that account, and nearer the people than any monarch could be.

I wish some one would give a postal course to all enquiring Americans on the powers of a constitutional monarch.

They would be found to be considerably less than a President's wife.

Nevertheless, one admires intelligence and courage wherever it is found, and it is found in abundance in this well written and interesting book.

Stabbing Trial MAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER

A 40-year-old man killed a woman by stabbing her more than 60 times with a screwdriver, the Supreme Court was told today.

Mr D. Rea, Crown Counsel, was outlining the case against Ng Yim, unemployed, who pleaded not guilty to murdering Yau Man-wan in Foo Mei New Village on November 26 last year.

The hearing is before Mr Justice J. H. Gragg. Mr Rea told the court the dead woman had lived in Hut 81 in the village with her husband and three children. Ng lived in Hut 97, and was on friendly terms with Yau.

Fire Outside
"About 3 a.m. on November 26 last year," said Mr Rea, "there was a fire outside Hut 81."

"You was inside with her children. It was later discovered that the fire was caused by a kerosene-soaked pillow outside the door. Neighbours managed to put out the fire, but it was discovered that a nail had been placed in the padlock on the door which prevented the inmates from leaving."

Mr Rea said Yau had saved her children by pushing them through a window. She had remained inside until the fire was put out. "Later Ng entered the hut, and after speaking to her, grabbed her by the hair and started stabbing her with a screwdriver," said Mr Rea.

"He dragged her out of the hut and up the hill. Evidence will show that she must have collapsed by the time they reached the next hut. She had been stabbed more than 60 times."

Picked Up Body

"After the attack, which was seen by a number of people, it would appear that Ng picked up her body and took it down the hill. At the resettlement area he placed the body by Block D."

Mr Rea said Ng had later given himself up to the police and had confessed stabbing the woman. Mr D. G. Willis is assisting Mr Rea.

Mr Oswald Cheung is defending, instructed by Mr William Wong, of M. K. Lam and Co.

25 years AGO

FOKIS fled in terror from a moaning ghost in a bakery shop in Wellington Street last night. The apparition had neither head nor legs, frightened little boys told police officers who investigated.

A Morning Post reporter, on his round of calls last night, was attracted by the excitement outside the shop.

A crowd of men and children was gathered there and the bravest among them had their faces close to the grilled doorway.

Later Police investigated and could see nothing, though they did hear a peculiar moaning noise.

Curiously enough, a man hanged himself under the stairway of the place a year ago.

FROM the SCM Post's 25 years ago: "With the site, buildings and four-fifths of the necessary endowment fund assured, the prospects of the establishment of a university for Hongkong on the lines of those so successfully conducted at Leeds and Birmingham are exceedingly bright."

"The practical sympathy of the Viceroy of Canton in providing the munificent sum of $200,000 has been welcomed in every circle, which recognise the advantages that will accrue to the Chinese from the establishment of such an institution. There are few who would not avoid the anxiety of long separation and gladly save burdensome expense if they had a suitable institution here to which they could send their sons."

"The University will be open to all classes of the community. It is not for the Chinese alone that it has been devised. Yet beyond the lavish generosity of the patron of the scheme and of one great British firm, we have heard of no other European donations to the fund."

YOUTH STOLE 34 WATCHES

A 19-year-old youth, who stole 34 wrist watches, a quantity of valuables and $900 from a friend of his, and then made a "grand tour" of pawn shops to pledge the stolen property, was remanded for seven days by Judge A. A. Huggins in the Kowloon District Court this morning.

The youth, Ho Kim-fan, was arrested a month after the offence when the Police traced a number of watches to him. He had given the watches as a present to one of his friends who had helped him pawn some of the stolen goods.

This morning in court, Ho pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in a dwelling house.

Chief Inspector T. W. Wheeler, said the defendant had made a wax impression of the key to a drawer in which his friend, a broker, kept his watches and fountain pens. On April 23, the accused broke into his friend's house and stole the contents of the drawer. At that time the broker was spending his holidays in the New Territories.

While the Police were making enquiries into another case, they arrested a man on May 6. On searching the man they had arrested, they found he had several wrist watches in his possession. It was through these watches that the Police were able to trace and arrest the defendant.

In court, Ho said he had stolen the articles to realise enough money to return to the mainland to continue his studies. Judge Huggins remanded him for seven days pending a report from the Commissioner of Prisons as to his suitability for corrective training.
